IRENE GROVE RESIGNS AS CHAMBER MANAGER

By DOROTHY LARIMER

The middle of January, Albany will lose one of its most enthusiastic boosters and one of the hardest workers on behalf of everything that is good for this community.

Irene Grove, who has been manager of the Albany Chamber of Commerce since January, 1958, has resigned to accept a position as secretary-manager of the Westminster Chamber of Commerce in Orange County.

IRENE GROVE

Prior to coming to Albany, Irene was assistant manager of the Hutchinson, Kansas, Chamber of Commerce, in charge of the convention department, promotions, public relations and membership.

When she came to Albany, she surveyed the situation and "threw the book away." She realized that it would be difficult to develop the Chamber along traditional lines when most of the business people didn't live here and those who lived here didn't work in Albany. Sometimes more board members lived out of town than lived in Albany. However, primarily because of her determination and dedication to the job, Albany's Chamber of Commerce has been a moving force in the community. Her job has not been easy, but she has come close to being all things to all people. To many, Irene Grove is the Chamber of Commerce.

Her busy office at 1108 Solano has been a clearing house for all sorts of projects: getting stories in the papers, mimeographing, compilation of lists and data, addressing envelopes, window displays, running errands of every description, contacting people by telephone, arranging dinners, displays at the fairs — you name it. Instead of "Let George do it," Albany's motto seems to have been, "Let Irene do it." And she has cheerfully and well.

In her weekly column in this newspaper, Irene has handed out pats on the back, congratulations, boosts when morale was lagging, but, most of all, she has pleaded for working together for the good of Albany and for harmony. She loves people and cannot abide ill will.

When she took the job as manager of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, the office was hidden away upstairs in the building over Cortese Pharmacy at the corner of Solano and San Pablo. Before long, she was instrumental in moving headquarters to a first floor location on Solano. She reorganized the program of work, handled successful regular and special retail promotions, organized monthly membership luncheons, promoted and worked on details for Albany's successful 50th anniversary celebration, initiated city-wide Christmas decorations, and helped the organization gain prestige throughout the community.

At this writing, Irene does not know when her mother, Mrs. Anna Hardy, and son, Dick, a senior at Albany High School, will move to Southern California. But she will take Kent, who attends Cornell School, with her when she leaves. An older son, Jack, is in college. She is moving to the area where her brother and an aunt are living.

On behalf of the people of Albany, we wish Irene success in her new post and, as she has so often said of others, "a big bouquet" for all her efforts on behalf of the Albany Chamber of Commerce! Her farewell column will be published next week.

Mothers March Chairmen Will Be Serving Second Consecutive Year

Mrs. Jack Murrow and Mrs. Bernard Johnson have been named co-chairmen of the 1962 Mothers March on Polio, which will be conducted Tuesday evening, January 30.

The two women headed the march conducted last January. Their appointment has been announced by Mrs. Donald A. Breed, county Mothers' March chairman, who said the annual door-to-door appeal will support continuing research and treatment for victims of birth defects, crippling polio and arthritis.

Mrs. Murrow, who lives at 1029 Albot, has marched for polio for the past nine years. She has been co-chairman for four years. A past president of Cornell PTA, she is active in Girl Scout and Cub Scout work. Alice and her husband are the parents of two children, Nancy, 15, and Jim, 11.

Mrs. Johnson, who lives at 624 Key Route Boulevard, is a past president of MacGregor PTA. Active in Girl Scouts for the past seven years, she has been den mother of Den 5 of Pack 50, Cub Scouts. Bernice and her husband,

CHECK FOR BUCHANAN — Alameda County Supervisor Kent D. Pursel presents Mayor Joe Carlevaro with a check in the amount of $33,940.39 designated for the improvement of Buchanan Street. The funds represent Albany's share of the county apportionment of gas tax monies based on street mileage and population and come under the so-called "mayors' formula." Improvement of the street into a four lane divided highway with railroad overpass and connection to Marin is expected to get under way this year. (Times Photo)

Buchanan Overpass No. 8 On PUC Priority List; Funds Assured

The Buchanan overpass at the Southern Pacific crossing has been placed as No. 8 among 33 grade crossings on the priority list for 1962 issued by the California Public Utilities Commission.

According to City Administrative Officer James B. Turner, the low number makes it virtually certain that the project will be undertaken this year. He said the first 12 projects will definitely be in the money, according to PUC. Funds are assured provided other commitments are met, he explained.

In Albany's case, the commitments involve right-of-way agreement with the Department of Agriculture and working out an agreement with Southern Pacific. Turner said that although this may take time, he does not anticipate any difficulties.

According to a release from PUC, which has responsibility for safety at grade crossings, the commission must compile a priority list for transmittal to the Department of Public Works, which with the California Highway Commission, is required by law to set aside $5 million each year from state highway funds. From this money, the Highway Commission may allocate up to one-half the share of a city or county for cost of constructing a grade separation or alteration. These are made according to the priority list.

Readiness of the city, county or district to finance its share of the cost was among the factors considered in establishing the list, as well as hazards to be eliminated. Albany was ready this year. Turner has worked out all details on the project. Only a few loose ends remain to be tied.

Searles Captures 'Most Wanted'

Animal Control Officer Charles Searles didn't know he had captured a dog "most wanted" by Berkeley police Friday, when he picked up a Doberman Pinscher on Masonic after a telephone report that the dog was chasing children on the street and had bit ten Mark Williams, six, of 1117 Key Route Boulevard.

He had the dog in his truck when a call came from the Berkeley police that they were looking for him after he had bitten three children in that city. One of those bitten was taken to the hospital.

The canine criminal did not live in Albany. He was turned over to Berkeley authorities.

High Lights Of Council Agenda ...

Because the City Council meeting was held last night, instead of Monday, due to the New Year holiday, the Albany Times was unable to cover the session this issue.

The agenda included a report from Administrative Officer James B. Turner on Albany's position on the PUC priority list for the Buchanan overpass (see separate story). He also was to report on the signing of an agreement with the State Land Commissioners for surveying and platting of the tide lands.

Many communications had been received. These include notice of a special League of California Cities conference on metropolitan government, to be held in Sacramento February 1-2; report from Chief of Police Ralph Jensen that Mary E. Nehls has completed her probationary period as policewoman-clerk; request from Turner to refund a sewer permit ($13) to Timmons and Berk;

Letter from Daniel N. Hoffman, commending the Council for its decision concerning Christmas display; thank-you from Malcolm Champlin for proclamation of Anti-Communism Week, advising school will be held in San Francisco January 29 through February 2;

Letter informing city of national fallout shelter survey and marking program currently being carried on in Alameda County; letter from mayor of Sunnyvale including resolution and letter supporting Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's petition for tax rate increase; Board of Equalization acknowledging receipt of ordinance amending Albany sales and use tax ordinance; letter from Bay Area Rapid Transit District including copy of resolution withdrawing from four-county system and plans to proceed on three-county Rapid Transit system.

Other matters on the agenda were routine business.

GOVERNOR EDMUND G. BROWN has reminded consumers and druggists that a new state law went into effect January 1 eliminating the state sales tax on prescription drugs. Co-sponsored by Assemblyman Byron Rumford of Berkeley and Senator Hugo Fisher of San Diego in the 1961 legislature, the measure is expected to result in a saving of $6 million to California taxpayers. It will amount to four per cent on every dollar spent on prescription medicines.

ALBANY'S SCHOOL PROBLEM — This photo shows the number of children from University Village whose education is costing the taxpayers of Albany $294 per child per year. The group in the foreground depicts the number now being educated, about 150. The group in the background, about 75, shows the minimum number of youngsters to be expected next fall when 500 additional village residents, now under construction, will be completed. The total could run as high as 300 children of school age and this could cost Albany an additional $75,000 a year for teachers, school rooms and transportation. The district must get the money from the state or there will have to be an increase in the school tax rate, according to Superintendent Kenneth Forry. He plans to present the problem to the deputy director of finance in Sacramento tomorrow. (Lennox Photo)

FORRY AND RUMFORD WILL APPEAL FOR STATE AID ON VILLAGE CHILDREN EDUCATION TOMORROW

Albany School Superintendent Kenneth Forry tomorrow will go to Sacramento with Assemblyman Byron Rumford to meet with Daniel M. Luevano, deputy director of finance, to discuss emergency appropriations for the Albany Unified School District under state impact legislation.

The school district is facing the problem of underwriting the cost of an additional 75 to 100 children from University Village with the opening of new buildings now under construction. Homeowners of the city are currently paying about $45,000 annually to educate children from the village, which is off the city's tax rolls.

State impact legislation was designed to give relief in communities in dam construction areas, but there is hope that Albany's situation may qualify, Forry said.

The superintendent is asking for emergency funds for fiscal 1962-63.

This meeting is another in a series of avenues Forry has explored to obtain relief for what he considers an unfair burden for the taxpayers of Albany. He has been working on the problem

Originally, he billed the regents of the University of California for the difference between state apportionment and the cost of educating University Village children in Albany schools. He got nowhere with the 1958 legislative session. Not even the regents favored his request.

However, the regents' budget to the legislature in 1960 included an appropriation for Albany schools, but it was taken out by the Department of Finance on the recommendation of Alvin Post, legislative analyst.

Lowrey's Assembly Bill 157 (which would give school districts out of the state general fund the difference between state apportionment and the cost of educating children in excess of one per cent of average daily attendance) was introduced during the 1961 legislative session. Heard in April, it was assigned to interim study for report to the 1963 session of the legislature.

Forry solicited the support of Assembly Majority Leader Jerome Wadlin in determining whether assistance is available under the state impact legislation. On December 4, the superintendent wrote to Governor Brown outlining the problem and asking for emergency funds in the amount of $45,000 for fiscal 1962-63. The meeting tomorrow is the result of this letter.

Superintendent Forry appeared before the committee on revenue and taxation in Richmond shortly before Christmas. He was encouraged by the sympathetic response of legislators to the committee, who believe something must be done to assist this city.

After many attempts to be heard before the Assembly Interim Committee on Education Forry now hopes to appear before that body in January or February.

City to Explore Special Legislation on Services to U Village

The City of Albany is exploring legislation at the state level in an effort to relieve the "unbearable burden" imposed on the city by the University of California's student housing project.

Representatives appeared in Richmond before the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation, but were told that there is little likelihood that Albany will receive "in lieu" taxes, which legislators fear would be "opening Pandora's box."

Mayor Joe Carlevaro, in a report before the committee, said

Albany should receive at least $100,000 annually to cover city services offered the 20 per cent of Albany's population living in tax-free University Village.

Carlevaro said that 1,461 of Albany's population of 13,343 live today in the Village. By fall of next year, he predicted the population of the Village will soar to 3,217, when 500 new dwelling units are added to the existing 419 units available to students and their families.

The city budget for this year for police and fire protection, health department, park and recreation, library and civil defense is $503,878.50. He said a fair share of current municipal expenses which should be assumed by the University of California would be $100,000.

Former Mayor Jerome Blank, who is legislative chairman of the Berkeley Realty Board, also appealed to the legislators for "in lieu" taxes for Albany, where, he said, "one of the greatest inequities has occurred." He said the University has pointed out that there are other benefits to the city such as sales tax revenue and payrolls. "However," Blank said, "this cannot be said about Albany, since Albany has all the cost of providing service and practically none of the sales tax benefits ... most of the students do not shop in Albany ... thus, the small non-industrial, residential city of Albany must contribute about $200,000 per year in municipal and educational services to the great State of California. This is a disproportionate burden and one which cannot be overlooked for much longer."

Dennis To Continue Collection for Leapers All Month

Robert Dennis, who is collecting games, cotton sport shirts and T-shirts for lepers, has announced that he will continue to collect the items donated by Albany residents throughout the month of January.

He has asked those wishing to donate to call him at home (LA 5-3148) or to leave articles in his driveway or on the porch at his home, 849 Madison

Albany Man Jailed In Mississippi

Dr. Cecil A. Thomas, 44, of 962 Ordway Street, secretary of the University of California YMCA, was sentenced December 26 in Jackson, Mississippi, to a four month jail term on a breach of the peace charge stemming from a "freedom ride" last July 24.

He was convicted by a Hinds County jury and also ordered to pay a $200 fine.

Thomas was convicted in July in city court and received the same sentence as handed down in county court. He had appealed the city court decision.

A police captain testified that when Thomas, Negro minister Matthew Pettway and his two children of Alabama came into a terminal, an angry crowd moved toward them. He said he had twice ordered Thomas to move and arrested him when the order was "willfully refused."

Thomas testified he went into the terminal to get a cup of coffee and something to eat. He said people stopped and looked when the police officer gave the order, but otherwise they were normal.

He had gone to Jackson July 18 to attend a ministerial conference.

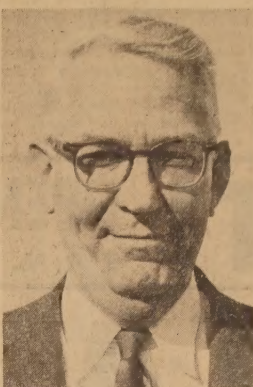

two daughters.

Melber W. Ayers, who has been maintenance foreman for the Park Department since December 8, 1940, was given a merchandise order for hi-fi or stereo equipment.

Ayers lives at 1011 Key Route Boulevard with his wife, Caroline. They are the parents of twin sons, Melvin, who lives in Albany, and Alvin of Walnut Creek.

Gwendolyn Kollenbaum Weds James T. Herbert In St. Ambrose Ceremony

Gwendolyn Kollenbaum and James T. Herbert, both of Albany, were married recently at St. Ambrose Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kollenbaum and he bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Herbert.

White chrysanthemums graced the altar for the rites conducted by the Rev. Thomas H. Callaghan.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin with long tapering sleeves and full skirt. Her veil of bridal illusion fell from an heirloom silver tiara, which has been in the bride's family for three generations. She carried orchids, lilies of the valley and Stephanotis.

Her sister, Louise Kollenbaum, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the bride's cousin, Kathy Lou Kollenbaum of Oakland, and the bridegroom's sister, Ruth Ann Herbert. They wore gold-colored satin and carried bouquets of gold and brown chrysanthemums arranged with sprays of wheat.

William Herbert was his brother's best man. Ushers were Michael Ahlgren and Donald Zack. Mrs. Kollenbaum wore a gown of draped green chiffon with matching accessories. Mrs. Herbert was attired in royal blue chiffon and jersey.

A reception followed at El Cerrito Eagles Hall.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Albany High School.

The bride took her degree from Santa Costa College, where she belonged to Omega Delta Sigma and American Dental Assistants Association. She is employed as a dental nurse.

Her husband is lineman for Pacific Telephone Company. He served two years with the U.S. Navy and is an airman in the Naval Reserve.

PAT ROYER

Patricia (Pat) Royer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Royer of Albany, plans a summer wedding to Edmund John Fitzgerald Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Fitzgerald of Fayetteville, N. Y., her parents have announced.

The bride-elect, who attended Marin School and is an Albany High School graduate, met her future husband in Hawaii, where she worked following graduation in journalism from the University of California. He is currently living in Antioch and working for Crown Zellerbach. He was stationed at Pearl Harbor on the USS Newell when he met the Albany girl.

Their engagement was announced at two recent parties. The first was at a champagne party for Miss Royer's Alpha Xi Delta Junior alumnae friends at the Lafayette home of Emily Fara, and the second at a party given by her parents.

At Cal, Miss Royer was affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta, Mask and Dagger Society, Hammer and Dimmer Society, ASUC Radio-TV Theater, Axe Revue and active in University Theater. She is employed by the UC Radiation Laboratory. She plans to spend a month with her sister, Pamela, and husband, Lt. Thomas Lee Bullock in Darmstadt, Germany, before her wedding.

Her future husband attended St. Michael's College at the University of Toronto and was graduated from LeMoyn College in Syracuse, New York. He was managing editor of the school's paper, the LeMoyn College Dolphin.

Miss Royer was editor of the Albany High School newsette.

George Mardikian Speaks At High School PTA Next Thursday Evening

Residents of the community will have the rare opportunity to receive a quick shot in the arm with the real spirit of America by coming to hear George Mardikian, famed restaurateur, writer, humanitarian, and genuine 100 per cent American, at the Albany High School PTA meeting Thursday, January 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

George Mardikian was born in Armenia and came to America in 1922, becoming a naturalized citizen five years later. He washed dishes in a San Francisco restaurant for $12 a week, and years later started his now famous restaurant, Omar Khayyam's, on the same spot. He once described his formula for success as hard work, but later amplified this to include three basic ingredients — belief in yourself, belief in your country, and belief in God.

He has received many commendations, including the Medal of Freedom for his work as Food Consultant to the U. S. Army from 1942 through 1954. He traveled all over the world at his own expense trying to solve the food problems of the Armed Services and his work won him the admiration of all servicemen and the title "The GI's Chow Champion".

The Albany High School PTA extends a special invitation to the young people of the community to hear this man who thanks God every day that he is an American and devotes his life to expressing his gratitude in words and works.

A short business meeting will precede the speaker and last minute details of the Book Fair will be discussed. Hostesses for the evening will be eleventh grade representatives: Mrs. M. J. Brickner and Mrs. Theodore Valli.

High School PTA Book Fair Is January 27

"Bigger and better than ever!" is what Albany High School PTA is promising for its second annual Book Fair Saturday, January 27. The Fun Fair of Carnival games in the gym, and books, hats, arts and crafts, aprons, white elephants and snacks in the cafeteria will start at 1 p.m. Dinner will be served in the cafeteria starting at 5 p.m., and running through 7:30, under the joint chairmanship of the Mesdames Carl Fosselius, Michael Buncich and Robert Moulton. Mrs. Fosselius, third vice-president of the PTA, is also general chairman of the Fair.

"Bandasia", a festival of varied types of instrumental music, will be presented in the gym at 8 p.m. with Ernest Douglas, school instrumental music director, and the Band Booster parents in charge. Following the concert a gay "Roaring Twenties" night club will flourish back in the cafeteria with dancing, honky-tonk piano, community singing and free refreshments.

Mrs. Robert Nehls, PTA art chairman, and Mrs. Helen Akin, art teacher, are busy gathering paintings and craft work from students and parents and artists of the community for a well represented art show and sale. A Book Fair poster contest for the students is now in progress and winners of the cash prizes will be announced on January 19.

Although some percentage of the proceeds of this afternoon and evening of fun for everyone must be earmarked for budgeted PTA expense, most of it will go for students and community welfare projects of the unit.

Albany's share of Pacific Telephone's $3,890,813.53 tax bill, paid this week at the County Courthouse, will be $49,237.44. The amount represents the first installment on the company's $7,781,697.23 ad valorem tax bill for 1961-62. Almost $4 million went to Alameda County, including taxes for Emeryville, Fremont, Hayward, Newark, Oakland, Pleasanton, San Leandro, Union City and Livermore.

Some $143,584 went directly to Alameda, Albany, Berkeley and Piedmont, which collect their own taxes.

The 1962 tax bill represents a 10.9 per cent increase over the 1960-61 total of $7,017,417. The second installment is due in April.

THANKS FOR WRITING!

Special ideas expressed by letters to the Times are their own and do not necessarily represent or imply the policy of the paper. Letters must be signed, complete with address, and are not withheld by the paper. No anonymous contributions are accepted. Readers are asked to limit their letters to 100 words, and present them on one side of the paper, legible. The Times reserves the right to shorten, reject or alter as long as the original intent is not altered. Despite these rather rigorous rules, we welcome your letters and will print them whenever possible.

The Times: Unfortunately I missed your editorial denouncing the b.b. cage at the Nativity scene. I did read the several letters to the Times this week on the same will just ask these few questions of the people writing the letters: several stated that the Nativity scene is in the majority in the community, therefore, the Nativity scene should be put up by the majority.

you follow this reasoning you will agree that the majority can use public money to put up the Nativity scene, as the religious ideas on the community, or to support the religious ideas on the community.

wouldn't go to a Jewish, or Mohammedan neighbor to get him to contribute to the church funds, but you don't mind extorting it from the church funds.

the Nativity scene is a small thing, something you almost never think of, but things have been known to be small, seem harmless opening in the separating church and state, and surprisingly creep some of these people may not have thought of.

instance, if a majority of the community are X-religion why don't the X-religious schools get tax supported, leaving no money left over for the Nativity scene? If a majority of the community are X-religion why don't the X-religious schools get tax supported, leaving no money left over for the Nativity scene?

Not even a small percent of the community would be allowed to recognize the observances of the Nativity scene. If they didn't like it, can't they just not recognize it? Can't they just not recognize it? Can't they just not recognize it?

Let us be careful whose trap we fall into when we listen to these ridiculous arguments for freedom. Cecilia P. McDermott 1350 Cedar Street Berkeley 2, Calif.

Editor, The Times: "How Do You Feel About ACLU Intervention?" The question makes one wonder and feel, "do we live in the peaceful city of Albany, or the Eastern half of Berlin, Germany?"

We have been residents of this city for 35 years, our children grew up in this city and attended the schools, we are members of one of the oldest established churches in the city. Through all these years there was never any question whether the Manger Scene should or should not be displayed on city property or financed out of public funds, guess everyone just expected to see the Manger Scene at Christmas.

The person who says "let's not put up with forcing religion on people" is obviously a person who is not a Christian. This country was founded on freedom of religion, and there are millions of Christians who would welcome the Manger Scene in their homes, but do not dare to express their views in a public place.

The ACLU is a minority group, always will be unless we, the people bow to them and their blackmail ideas. We feel that the few who think that Christ can be taken out of Christmas, will finally come to realize that without Him, they are as a grain of sand caught up in a whirlwind.

Times Poll Shows

90 Per Cent

Favor Manger Scene

If returns from a recent public opinion poll give a true picture of the situation, 90 per cent of our community believes Albany should have its Nativity Scene.

There is no way of knowing, of course, whether the 63 ballots returned represent a typical cross-section of the population. Among those who returned the ballots published in the December 20th issue of the Times, 57 checked "Albany should have its Nativity Scene." Six checked the statement, "ACLU is right. The city should not use public funds for Nativity Scenes."

The low number of returns may be attributed to the Christmas rush, but the Albany Times remains interested in public opinion on the matter, which will come up again next December. If you no longer have the issue of December 20, please drop a note or post card to the Times at 1240 Solano Avenue.

Quite a number of the ballots had comments in addition to the vote. A sampling of those written on ballots favoring the Nativity Scene includes: "If we can't afford to set up our Christmas decorations, we had better lock up City Hall." "Put it up 'at any cost.'" "Let us stop this kidding to the Communists and their pink organizations. This nation was founded on Christian principles and as a Christian nation, we need to stand firm on our convictions." "Are we nice or mean? We have a spineless Council." "ACLU is right to its opinion, but no right to force minority opinion on the majority." "Why permit Communist front organizations to influence our customs and heritage? Our national government uses public funds (taxes) for foreign aid, etc."

Among comments on ballots agreeing that ACLU is right were "A waste of public funds on some foolish myth," and "Resent the use of the word 'intervention' when in fact ACLU here asserts the rights of all of us."
